It makes no difference to Mack Sennett where they come from or what they have been doing. If they are beautiful enough and shapely enough he makes bathing girls of them. In the list of young women on the payroll of his studio in Los Angeles are girls from every section of the United States and, almost, from every walk of life, from society buds to check room girls. In the group of girls chosen to go on tour with "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" and who will be seen at the Nugget Theatre for an engagement of one night, Jan. 3, will be found a fair representation of this diversity of employment and social status. Two of the girls come from families of wealth and the weekly salary they receive means little to them. One calls New York City her home and the other was born and spent most of her few years in Chicago, though both now have homes in Los Angeles. Of the others two were born in California, one in Texas, one in Maine, one in Colorado, two in Canada and one in Minnesota. Three have never been employed except in the Sennett studios and the others, prior to their engagement by Mr. Sennett, were stenographers, clerks, beach employees and one was an elevator operator.—adv.

And They Were Wed

The beautiful country home of Albert Latimer and wife was the scene of a very pretty wedding Sunday, Dec. 28, at high noon, when their youngest daughter, Ruby C., was united in marriage to Berlin F. Coday. The solemn words, which united these two young lives, were said by Rev. T. B. Ritzinger, pastor of the Mansfield Baptist church, in the presence of the family and a few friends. At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony the usual congratulations were extended and the bride and groom led the way to the dining room where a bountiful four-course luncheon was served, which for delicacy, variety and abundance, was worthy the hospitable hostess who prepared it. Both of these young people are residents of this county and have many friends here. The groom is the son of Thomas Coday and wife and is a young man of bright promise, full of business energy and honest purpose. He has chosen for his bride a most charming and accomplished young woman, one who will make him an ideal life companion. For the present they will make their home in Springfield. We wish for them a long and happy life.
